EDFAS Volunteering Excellence Award

The EDFAS Volunteering Excellence Award honors members of EDFAS who exemplify the highest ideals of volunteer service. The vitality and success of EDFAS depends on its members, and their willingness to contribute their time and talents for the good of the society and the electronic device failure analysis community.

The purpose of this award is to recognize those whose selfless commitment, positive attitude, and enthusiastic service embody the true spirit of volunteerism. These individuals consistently go above and beyond, making a meaningful and lasting impact through their contributions to EDFAS initiatives, local chapters, and committees.

EDFAS Volunteering Excellence Award Past Recipients

2026
Ho Lun Chan PhD
DARPA Innovation Fellow
DARPA

Citation: "For his outstanding contributions in establishing the Student and Young Professional (SYP) Committee and for initiating several key programs, including the SYP poster session and the SYP mentoring program."

2026
Rosalinda Ring
Director_NenoVision Applications Development and Engineering
NenoVision

Citation: "For exemplary volunteer leadership, sustained service to ISTFA, and dedication to advancing failure analysis education. Your efforts have significantly strengthened the Electronic Device Failure Analysis Society community."